What is the best deworming schedule to gain better worm protection for my fighting cocks?

How often should I deworm them?

DEWORMING is an important part of the gamefowl conditioning process. It rids the animal's body of internal parasites such as roundworms, cecal worms, and tapeworms that feed on nutrients and deprive the host of nourishment necessary for optimum health and development.

For best results, choose a dewormer that is broad-spectrum, or effective against common internal parasites. One example is PPT, made with anthelmintic ingredients Piperazine (to fight roundworms), Phenothiazine (to combat cecal worms), and Niclosamide (for defense against pathogenic tapeworms). This broad-spectrum scientific formulation has been tested and proven as quick-acting and safe for gamefowl, poultry, and turkeys.

THE CHAMPION'S DEWORMING SCHEDULE: 2-14-30

Just as lotto players hit the jackpot by a winning combination of numbers, gamefowl breeders and owners can raise champion fighters with a winning conditioning program. This consists of a balanced diet, proper training, vitamin and mineral supplements, plus medication such as deworming drugs.

When it comes to deworming fighting cocks with PPT, the winning medication timetable is 2-14-30, which means to deworm the bird at two (2) months old, repeat after fourteen (14) days, then deworm afterwards every thirty (30) days. This recommended schedule by Belman Laboratories R&D has been found to be most effective against parasites, and more importantly, safe and nontoxic for the gamefowl.

Give one caplet of PPT per bird one month prior the fighting cock derby. It is also best to deworm before providing the bird any vitamins, minerals, and other drugs in order to maximize the effectivity and potency of the medication.
